FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT.

Entered at the post-office at Frankfort, Kentucky, as second-class mailable matter.

Geo. A. LEWIS, Editor and Publisher.

FRANKFORT, DEC. 26, 1891.

Supposed to be Drowned.

Mr. Joseph Sullivan, Superintendent of the Chair Factory of Messrs. Mason & Ford Co., at the Penitentiary, disappeared very mysteriously on Saturday morning and has not since been seen.

He was attacked with the grippe on Saturday, for which he took several doses of quinine and whisky, and about six o'clock in the evening left his home on Arlington Heights, telling his wife he was coming down town. He was last seen about two o'clock Sunday morning, on Broadway, walking in the direction of the river. Diligent search was made for him Sunday, and on Monday Officer Mack Phythian and Mr. James Sullivan, brother of the missing man, went to Louisville to look for him, thinking perhaps he had wandered off into the country and taken a train at some station down the road. On Tuesday Officer Mack Phythian learned that Albert Dean, a resident of the north end of the city, had found a hat in the river, between the mouth of the Mero street sewer and Congleton Bros' saw-mill, about noon on Sunday, looked him up and got the hat, which, upon examination, was thought to be the one worn by Sullivan when last seen.

That afternoon dynamite was exploded in the river at different points and a canon was fired over the spot where he was supposed to have gone down. Neither had any effect, and the fate of Sullivan is still shrouded in mystery.

Struck the Wrong Man.

Mr. A. H. McClure, Secretary of the Kentucky Midland Railway Company and of the Frankfort Water Company, was standing upon the street the other day when a young woman approached him and asked if he would not marry her. When he had recovered sufficiently from his embarrassment, he informed the young lady that he already had one wife, which was all the law allowed a man in this country, and he most respectfully decline the honor.

"Law!" she exclaimed, "I thought you were Mr. Arnold, the Christian preacher. I don't want to marry you, but some one to marry me to a better looking man."

Next Thursday.

The Legislature of Kentucky will meet on Thursday next, and the session will likely be the longest held by that body in years. Already the candidates for the different offices to be filled by the House and Senate are beginning to gather in to await the arrival of the Senators and Representatives.

Death of Mrs. Leach.

Mrs. Lydia Leach died Tuesday night, at the residence of her son, Mr. S. C. Bull, 109 Cross street, in the 80th year of her age, after a brief illness. She had been in her usual health up to Sunday last when she was attacked with grippe, which resulted in her death as above stated. The funeral took place Thursday morning from the residence of her son, the services being conducted by Rev. H. G. Henderson, of the Methodist Church, of which Church she had for many years been a member, Rev. J. McClusky Blaney, of the First Presbyterian Church, assisting in the services.

Commendable.

All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure-all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

Couldn't Go.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to dine at the Willard Hotel, Louisville, yesterday, but having a previous engagement with the head of our house, were unable to be present. We are just as much obliged to Manager Logan as if we had partaken of the good things we know that he spread before his guests.

A Good Investment.

The attention of those of our readers who have a small sum of money to invest is called to the fact that the People's Homestead and Saving Association will open a new class of stock on the first of January. By investing a small sum weekly with this Association you place your money where it is perfectly safe and get a good return for the same.

Compromise Proposed.

At a meeting of the creditors of Mr. James M. Wakefield, held at the Council Chamber in the City Hall, Tuesday afternoon, he proposed to compromise at 20 cents on the dollar, to give security within six months for the payment of the same and the business to be turned over to him by his assignee.

The matter was referred to a committee of the creditors, who are to formulate a plan of compromise and report at an adjourned meeting to be held at the same place to-day.

Was Born in this County.

The following notice of the death of a former resident of Franklin county, is taken from the Paducah Standard.

It was with much pain that his friends received the sad intelligence Sunday evening that Dr. Reuben Sanders was dead. His lately feeble condition, and that he was ill was known, but the doctor had pulled through so many spells of ailment that his friends and kindred hoped he would this time also be as fortunate. His advanced age, however, was against this, the recent attack of la grippe proved too much, and the venerable doctor's last battle. His death occurred Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, the sick man simply passed into an easy and endless sleep. Dr. Sanders was born in Franklin county, near Frankfort, September 6, 1808, being therefore lately past his eighty-third year. He was reared mainly in Frankfort, being apprenticed when a boy to the trade of a book binder. His earlier education was obtained principally through the perusal of books and works that passed through his hands in the course of work upon them as binder. At the age of twenty-four he emigrated to Alabama, settling at Wetumpka, in that State. Later he turned his attention to the study of medicine, and while in the South attended a course of lectures at Charleston, S. C. Afterwards he attended the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, where he graduated in 1836.

Death of Mrs. James F. Browninski.

Mrs. Nora Conch Browninski, wife of Capt. James F. Browninski, died at her home on High street, Friday morning about 3 o'clock, after an illness of only six days! The bright and happy wife and mother, last week buoyant with hope and health, lives to-day only in the hearts of those who loved her.

The fell shaft of death could not have been aimed at any other and produced more profound or more general sorrow among this people. The sweet embodiment of gentleness, intelligence and grace, she was held in high esteem by all who knew her, and most tenderly loved by those whose relations with her were intimate. With moral characteristics of the highest order, and her religious nature ripened into a perfect Christian character, is it any wonder that a wide circle of friends pay the tribute of unavailing grief? But, the sorrow of the household; ah, there is a poignancy in it that finds no expression in cold, barren words.

Last Sunday morning, a daughter was born in the happy home. The mother was soon taken with inflammatory rheumatism and then with the prevailing influenza, her sufferings being intense—and the sad result has been told.

Married June 11, 1878, she was the mother of three children, a daughter aged ten, a son, eight, and the little babe that will never know its mother. Her age was about thirty-five, years, and her life was spent in Carrollton. She had long been a devoted member of the Methodist Church.

As memory reproduces her image—an image whose loveliness will not be marred by time, as would have been the case had she lived—the only consolation will be that He doeth all things well.

The funeral will take place to-day at 2 o'clock from the Methodist Church. Services by Rev. C. J. Nugent, the pastor. A number of the relatives from a distance are here.—Carrollton Democrat.

As the commander of the U. S. Snag boat Kentucky, Capt. Browninski has made a host of friends along the river, many of them being residents of this city, who deeply sympathize with him in the great sorrow which has darkened his hitherto bright and happy existence.

Masonic Election.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION OF THE

The Old Judge Distilling Company.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS that Manly T. Mitchell, C. W. Finck and Henry Finck have associated themselves together and formed a corporation under Chapter 56 of the General Statutes of Kentucky, and do hereby adopt the following articles of incorporation:

1. The name of the Corporation shall be "The Old Judge Distilling Company," and the principal place of business shall be Frankfort, Kentucky.
2. The general nature of the business proposed to be transacted is the manufacture and distillation of whisky, brandy, wine or other liquors; and to buy and sell the same, and to do such other business as may be necessary in connection therewith.
3. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty thousand dollars ($20,000), divided into shares of the par value of one hundred dollars ($100) each. Said capital stock may be increased at any time to an amount not to exceed fifty thousand dollars ($50,000). The capital stock shall be paid in at such times, and in such amounts, as the Board of Directors may determine.
4. The corporation shall commence on the 20th day of November, 1891, and continue for fifty years next succeeding unless sooner dissolved by a vote of two thirds of the capital stock in force.
5. The affairs of the corporation shall be conducted by a board of three directors, but the number may be increased by a vote of the directors to any number they may think proper. The board of directors shall elect from their number a President, Secretary and Treasurer. The board of directors and officers aforesaid shall be elected on the 28th day of November, 1891; and they shall serve until the first Monday in June following, and they shall be elected on the first Monday of June following of each year, and shall serve for one year from the date of their election, or until their successors are elected and qualified.
6. The highest amount of liability to which the corporation shall at any time subject itself shall not exceed two thirds of its capital stock.
7. All private property is to be exempt from any and all corporate debts.
8. In testimony whereof the said incorporators have hereunto signed their names this 20th day of November, 1891.
